STI has an immediate opening for a Fire Protection Engineer in our Somerville, NJ Corporate offices. In this high-profile position, you will be responsible for the implementation and execution of daily goals and objectives to deliver industry leading engineering services and support as it relates to firestopping.

You’ll be tasked with:

Providing engineering support for internal and external customers as well distribution channels to promote sound firestop engineering principles through engineering judgments, phone consultation, letters, and other modes of engineering communication. This position will also assist in developing internal and external product testing requirements in accordance with industry standards and codes based on emerging trends and customer feedback.

EDUCATION/EXPERIENCE REQUIREMENTS

- B.S. in Fire Protection or related engineering discipline (preferred)
- NFPA Certified Fire Protection Specialist (CFPS) Certification (preferred)

STI is an equal opportunity employer. We pride ourselves in outsiders wanting to join our team!! We offer a competitive compensation plan and an array of benefits to go along with joining our team. Medical, dental, life, voluntary programs, wellness and 401k match make our company stand out. We believe in giving to our employees and in return, they believe in us through their dedication. Interested in hearing more? Contact us in any number of ways.

- Apply online
- jgrinthal@stifirestop.com