

Fire Protection Engineer

Bethesda, MD

Overview

At DLH, we offer an exceptional work environment that values and prioritizes the well-being and work-life balance of our employees. With our hybrid schedule, you will have the flexibility to work both on campus and remotely, allowing you to tailor your workday to suit your personal needs and commitments. This Fire Protection Engineer role involves little to no travel, enabling you to maintain stability and focus on your core responsibilities. Our company proudly supports the National Institutes of Health (NIH), contributing to meaningful initiatives that have a positive impact on society. Joining our team means becoming part of a close-knit community that fosters collaboration, knowledge-sharing, and camaraderie.

Responsibilities

- Review architectural and engineering designs and fire protection system shop drawings for over 50 buildings, including healthcare and laboratory facilities.
- Conduct construction inspections and issue final occupancy permits.
- Witness acceptance tests for fire alarm and sprinkler system modifications.
- Evaluate existing building conditions through life safety and hazard analysis surveys.
- Provide technical guidance using various NFPA codes, with particular emphasis on healthcare and laboratory occupancies.

Qualifications

- Bachelor's Degree in Fire Protection Engineering or a related field.
- Minimum of 4 years of general experience in Fire Protection.
- Must have a valid Driver's License.
- Ability to obtain a Public Trust Clearance.

Desired Qualifications

- Professional Engineers License in Fire Protection

Basic Compensation: $87,164.45 - $96,000 yearly salary

The salary range listed reflects what we reasonably expect to pay for this role at the time of posting. The final offer may vary based on skills, experience, geographic location, market conditions, and internal equity. Additional compensation may include performance incentives and program-specific awards. We do not use salary history to determine compensation, in line with applicable law.

Benefits

DLH Corp offers our employees an excellent benefits package, including Personal Time Off (PTO), medical, dental, vision, supplemental life with AD&D, short and long-term disability, flexible spending accounts, parental leave, legal services, and more. We want our employees to save for their future; therefore, we offer a 401(k) Retirement Plan, which includes a matching component. DLH is dedicated to your career development, providing training to help drive success, with access to our best-in-class e-learning suite for formal and informal learning, professional and technical certification preparation, and education assistance at accredited institutions.

If you are interested, please email your resume to either Tyvin.Butler@dlhcorp.com or Meghan.Cross@dlhcorp.com. You can also apply to the opening on our website at <https://www.dlhcorp.com/careers/>.